RE: Award Bid for Ridgeland Tennis Center Lighting System Improvements

On February 21, 2023, bids were received for the Lighting Improvements for the Ridgeland Tennis Center. Of the four bids received, Mcinnis Systems, is the apparent low bidder with a price of $211,950.00 for the base bid. The City of Ridgeland was awarded a Grant from Land and Water Conservation Fund in the amount of $100,000.00 The City would be responsible for the remaining amount of $111, 950.00

A bid tabulation is attached for your perusal.

It is our recommendation that the City of Ridgeland award the contract to Mcinnis Systems, for the Base Bid in the total amount of $211,950.00, An authorize the Mayor, to execute the contract on behalf of the City of Ridgeland.

Should you award the bid tonight, the contract, bond, insurance documents and notice to proceed would be on the first agenda in April for your approval.

Thank you for your consideration of this request.

TO: Mayor & Board of Aldermen
FROM: Brian Myers, Chief of Police
SUBJECT: Tactical Response Agreement

Please review for approval the Memorandum of Tactical Response Agreement between the Madison Police Department (MPD), Madison County Sheriff's Office (MCSO), and the Ridgeland Police Department (RPD). This is to establish a pre-approved response callout procedure between the tactical units of MPD, MCSO, and RPD.

Your approval will be greatly appreciated.

Attachments (1)

TACTICAL RESPONSE AGREEMENT FOR
MADISON POLICE DEPARTMENT, MADISON COUNTY SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT AND RIDGELAND POLICE DEPARTMENT

Definitions: "Agency Head" – It is recognized as the Chief of Police or the Sheriff or their designee.

"Tactical Unit" – Special Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) or Special Response Team (SRT).

"Assisting Tactical Unit" – A tactical unit responding outside of their jurisdiction to assist another agency's tactical unit.

"Tactical Situation" – A situation that routine patrol officers are not equipped or trained to handle. (i.e., barricaded subject, hostage situation, etc.)

Foreward: In the past, Madison County Tactical Units from Madison Police Department "MPD", Madison County Sheriff's Office "MCSO" and Ridgeland Police Department "RPD" have corroborated in response to each agencies' need for tactical support like never before. These agencies have worked to resolve critical incidents safely, efficiently, and without jurisdictional conflict.

As with any critical incident requiring a tactical response, the originating agency head will deploy their tactical unit. Generally, at the critical incident unfolds, requests for other tactical units are made. Often times the time lapse is approximately an hour or more. As a consequence, the original tactical unit becomes physically fatigued, as they wait for another jurisdiction's tactical unit to be notified, assembled, and respond. Another issue that arises is the non-tactical patrol officers that initially arrive on scene are still responsible for holding a post on a perimeter. This leaves the on duty shift short to respond to other calls for service elsewhere. Typically, when the call for assistance is made the other jurisdictions' tactical units arrive on scene, they then relieve the initial tactical unit for rehab (i.e., water, cool down, etc.); and begin replacing perimeter units so they may go back in service.

The Agency Heads and Tactical Commanders of these three (3) agencies have agreed to mutually share in each other's manpower and resources during any type of critical incident that may arise, without regard to jurisdictions. It takes all of us to handle these situations, and timing is critical.

This agreement will greatly enhance our ability as Tactical Units and Agency Heads to move manpower and equipment into a tactical situation in a more efficient and timely manner.

Purpose: To establish a pre-approved response callout procedure between the tactical units of MPD, MCSO, and RPD.

Procedure: For the purpose of this agreement, if a tactical situation is identified within a jurisdiction of the City of Madison, the City of Ridgeland, or Madison County, it shall be pre-approved and understood that the two other tactical units will respond with the jurisdictional tactical unit at their time of activation. It will be an automatic response for the originating jurisdiction's dispatch center to notify the other two (2) jurisdictions' dispatch centers for activation of their tactical units. Agency Heads will still be notified of the callout through their current designated process within their own agency.

Responding assisting tactical units will arrive on scene and have their Tactical Commanders meet with the jurisdictional Tactical Commander and Agency Head as usual, to assist in the development of a tactical plan of action. Assisting Tactical Commanders will command their own tactical units in conjunction with the jurisdictional Tactical Commander and Agency Head as it relates to the tactical plan of action. This agreement is an enhancement to any previously signed Memorandum of Understand (MOUs) by these agencies in regards to tactical operations and these units working together.

2021 BUILDING CODE ADOPTION ORDINANCE

SIGNIFICANT CHANGES AND COMMENTARY

2/1/2023

SIGNIFICANT CHANGES AND COMMENTARY

Broadly speaking, and with the entire proposed ordinance in consideration, there are minimal changes from the Building Code Ordinance that is currently in place. The following proposed changes are important to highlight:

1. Ordinance Structure and Layout

- The most extensive and noticeable change is the layout of the proposed ordinance, which closely mimics the design of the Official Zoning Ordinance. Although the new proposed ordinance appears to be more complex, as mentioned before, there are no major changes. Most of the language included can be found within the current building code ordinance, adopted building codes, elsewhere in another ordinance, or even an executive order.
- The goal is to make the ordinance easier to read, navigate, and understand by either a professional or layman, alike. And further, to help provide convenience. Instead of a person having to reference multiple documents, the pertinent information can be found in one place.

2. Stop Work Order

- Section 12 addressing Stop Work Orders was simply relocated from the building codes. Some language varied from model code to model code and some did not include a provision for Stop Work Orders at all. This section was created primarily for clarity. It is written and placed in a way that would allow a Stop Work Order to be issued for any violation of the building code ordinance and not limited to specific building codes.
- One significant change is the penalty fee for work commencing before a permit is issued. Through a couple of past adoptions, the penalty for this is to double the permit fee. The proposed change is to enforce a flat penalty fee of $500.00 for any person that receives a Stop Work Order for no permit.

In some instances, doubling the permit fee seemed appropriate; however, at other times, the penalty could be deemed unreasonable or insignificant. For example, some major projects could have a permit fee well into the thousands of dollars range while minor projects could have a permit fee as low as $30.00. As history shows, it is not usually the major projects that work beginning without a permit is an issue, but rather smaller projects, such as residential swimming pool installations.

- The goal of Section 12(d) is to deter work beginning without a permit by enforcing a reasonable penalty that makes an individual uncomfortable and not just inconvenienced.

3. Construction Documents

- Once again, most of the language in Section 14 has been relocated from the building codes and placed for easy reference; however, there are a few proposed additions/changes to the existing requirements:
 - o Submittals - It has been precedence to require three sets of hard-copy construction documents at permit application submittal. However, the language in the adopted codes reads as requiring “two or more” sets. The proposed change is to clarify three or more hard sets are required and also allows for digital copies to be submitted in certain instances, if required by the City.
 - o Registered design professional – Pursuant to state law, privately owned buildings that are three stories in height or more, or buildings that are more than 5,000 square feet should be designed by a registered design professional. This was reciprocated for clarity. And further, all foundation plans are currently required to be designed by a registered design professional in accordance with our current building code ordinance. That requirement is proposed to continue along with new additions: All structural, civil, and automatic sprinkler plans. There are exceptions provided for one- and two-family dwellings and townhouses and also to waive the requirements in their entirety (except for state requirements) at the discretion of the code official.
 - o Registered landscape architect – This section was added as an attempt to help with the ARB and site approval process for commercial projects. There is an exception provided to exempt one- and two family dwellings and townhouses. And like the registered design professional exemption provision, there is language provided to permit this requirement to be waived in its entirety, as well.

4. Temporary Certificate of Occupancy

- Section 16(c) was added to provide the minimum requirements to obtain a Temporary Certificate of Occupancy. These requirements have been enforced for quite some time through an Executive Order dated in 2008. The intention was to bring these long standing requirements and adopt them along with the new codes.

5. Certificate of Completion

- The Certificate of Completion is proposed in this adoption. In many instances, the completion of a permit does not warrant a Certificate of Occupancy to be issued. For example, a permit for constructing a building shell or a mechanical system installation. A Certificate of Completion would be proof that a structure or system is complete, as it pertains to the permit, but does not grant authority to occupy or use a building, such as a shell building. This certificate would be beneficial in many scenarios, such as a pool permit.

6. Building Codes

There are a few minor changes, but most of those changes are to help provide guidance on new technologies and language clarifications. There are a few deletions and modifications, but a majority is to reciprocate what the previous ordinances depicted. The goal was to help provide as smooth of a transition as possible from one building code adoption to the next.

- International Building Code
 - o Deleted sections that permitted keyed locks on the interior of emergency egress doors.
 - o Deleted sections that permitted multi-user restroom facilities to be designed to serve all genders.
 - o Added a provision to require any significant changes to the exterior look of a commercial structure or site that exceeds $10,000 in cost to require a building permit.
 - The intention is to utilize the new Certificate of Completion and help provide an avenue to enforce ARB approved projects that would normally be exempt from requiring a permit.
 - o Modified the language in Section 311.1.1.
 - The language in the 2021 IBC reads “A room or space used for storage purposes that is accessory to another occupancy shall be classified as part of that occupancy.”
 - This modification places a limit on the size of a storage room at 100 square feet or less in order to be considered “an accessory” to the main occupancy.

- This change is critical when considering the automatic sprinkler ordinance that is intended to require Storage facilities to be sprinklered.
 - o Modified the language for the drinking fountain requirement.
 - There have been many complaints of being required to install a drinking fountain, especially since the Covid Pandemic; however, the importance of free drinking water being provided to the public is still a necessity. I propose to increase the occupancy load requirement from 15 to 25 occupants.
- International Residential Code
 - o Deleted sections requiring automatic fire suppression systems in residential structures.
 - o I propose a revision of the exception to require handrails and guards.
 - In the 2015 Building Code adoption, there were two modifications to the code stating that if a residential project is 4,000 square feet or larger and a registered architect submits a letter, stamped and signed, that details and explains the visually adverse effects the handrails and guards will have on the project, then the handrail and guard requirements can be waived. It also permitted guards on porches, balconies, ramps or raised floor above the floor or grade to be not less than 28 inches in height.
 - Because of the dangers with unprotected ledges, the new proposal requires the registered architect to provide the same letter as before but to also include in the submittal the minimal impact the waiver of guards or handrails would have on occupant safety.
 - The new proposal also limits the allowance of barrier waiver to 48 inches max in height from floor to the adjacent floor or grade.
 - o Adopting provisions of the energy code.
 - There is guidance in the code to meeting certain levels of energy conservation that may help a designer or installer; however, it is also understood the burden of such requirements could be costly, and sometimes infeasible. Because of this, there is language included that provides that values and factors shall not be less than, nor required to be more than the values and factors that have been in place since the 2015 building code adoption, regardless.
 - There is also proposal to delete certain sections of the energy code. An example of a deletion is the requirement to provide energy compliance certificates.
 - o Adopting the Appendices AE and AJ

- These appendices cover the regulation of manufactured homes and existing residential buildings.

- International Plumbing Code

- o Requirements for drinking fountains coordinated with the International Building Code.
- o Requiring tracer wire for a water service piping two inches or larger that connects to public systems.
- o Requiring rubber mechanical-type fitting or connections that are utilized for underground horizontal sanitary sewer piping to be banded or shielded to prevent movement, and/or shearing of the joint or connection. This requirement excludes connections for the sewer tap.
- o Adopted Appendix C.
 - This appendix regulates cutting, notching, boring, and punching in framing members. This closely, if not fully, resembles the requirements in the IBC.

- International Energy Conservation Code

- o Much like the IRC, although the code is adopted including several provisions to values and factors, there is language included that provides that values and factors shall not be less than, nor required to be more than the values and factors that have been in place since the 2015 building code adoption.
- o There are revisions on the residential energy provisions to help provide uniformity to the IRC.

PROVISIONS AS PROVIDED IN SAID CODES
